Precious Homes of the Prairie:

What a wondrous Christmas, as always! Now, we move onward to “Happy New Year!”

Forever faithful, absolutely steadfast, in His covenant to each believer, as well as to Pontiac Christian School overall, the Lord has blessed us abundantly throughout this past year. What a mighty God we serve, as we look forward with joyous excitement to 2012 and all of His wonderful provision!

Generally, in American churches, our Lord Jesus Christ desires revival fire(s) to grow stronger and stronger. Like a wise pastor commented, “When redeemed people practice a lifestyle of repentance, ongoing revival springs up, and society sees reformation.” It’s never been about the economy; it’s always been about the “heart” ... individually and corporately. He alone is Jehovah-Jireh!!!

Specifically, at PCS – families, enrollment, budget, staff – He knows every need and will meet them all according to His unlimited, ever timely resources from Heaven. He is the Good Shepherd over His children, so we shall not lack any good thing. God enjoys being God and desires for us to desire Him: Praise His Name!

Personally, the all-knowing Spirit of God continues to lovingly teach me about rest and about relationships. Resting in Him, casting all cares upon Him, equips my life to stay surrendered to His will ... guarding my thoughts, my words, my actions, with the Holy Spirit constantly filtering them through Scripture.

This easy yoke and light burden of Jesus keeps me consistently in worship mode – wherever I might be, whatever I’m doing, whomever I meet – heartbeat by heartbeat. It colors all relationships and helps me to peacefully prepare, the night before, for each new day which follows.

Yes, the Lord’s immovable love molds my heart to remain pure, my conscience clear, and my faith sincere. That way, the encouragement of Christ can flow to any and to every relationship by expressing the peace of:

- “I love you.”
- “I care for you.”
- “Is there something I can do to serve you?”

Wow, how we proclaim it, “Happy New Year!”

Loving Him, loving you, today and all days (Psalm 118:24),
